New Director

Kimberli Hood Easley Joins Theater

The Hill Country Children's Theater is proud to announce the arrival of our new director, Kimberli Hood Easley. Ms. Easley comes to us from Huntingdon, Tennessee, and is the former artistic director of The Dixie Carter Performing Arts Center: Home of the Hal Holbrook Theatre and the Dixie Players/Dixie Youth Theatre. She has many years experience as an artistic director, as well as acting instructor, scriptwriting instructor, stage manager and costumer. Her professional directing credits include; Babes In Toyland; A Christmas Play; Much Ado About Nothing; The Crucible; Catacombs; The Runner Stumbles; To Kill a Mockingbird; The Best Christmas Pageant Ever; Godspell; and The Adventures of Tom Sawyer. She has also directed two productions of Steel Magnolias, one of which won four regional theater awards. The board of directors of the HCCT welcomes Kim and her husband, Jesse, along with their hounds, Abilene, Chloe, and Buckey to the Hill Country and we look forward to working

Salvation Army Association

Hill Country Children's Theater is now officially working in association with the Salvation Army. We look forward to adding to the service they provide our community.
